Description

Romantic Revival Decorative Dagger with Female Figure, 19th Century. A 19th-century Romantic Revival decorative dagger, the hilt finely cast as a female figure in historical costume. The scabbard is richly ornamented in relief with masks, scrolling foliage, trophy motifs and neo-medieval decorative elements. The dagger is fitted with a narrow triangular blade and has the character of a small ceremonial or cabinet piece rather than a practical military weapon. Its design reflects the 19th-century Romantic fascination with the Middle Ages and Renaissance, expressed through theatrical historicist detail and sculptural decoration. The surface has a dark patina with rubbed highlights, enhancing the depth of the relief work. Origin: Probably France. Period: 19th
