Description

Original engraving by Léon DANCHIN (1887-1938) - Setter pointing at ducks - Numbered 241/500 A very beautiful original color engraving by Léon Danchin (1887-1938), an internationally renowned French artist famous for the excellence and realism of his hunting and wildlife scenes. The work depicts a pointing dog (Setter type) crouched in the reeds at the water's edge, watching for mallards to take flight. A composition of great finesse, perfectly capturing the atmosphere of waterfowl hunts. Original etching (etch) enhanced with period colors; the overall condition is good with a few imperfections due to age. Sold with its frame. Numbered in pencil 241/500 in the lower right corner and hand-signed in the lower left corner. Dimensions Overall: 60.4 x 43.4 cm Print
