Description

Large white Murano glass vase with spiral decorationMurano, Italy, circa 1970-1980Height: 44 cmA superb, large vase made of blown Murano glass, notable for the elegance of its flared silhouette and the quality of its spiral design, which delicately adorns the entire surface of the piece.Crafted from white opaline glass of the lattimo type, this piece features fine twisted bands forming a regular spiral that perfectly complements the vase's shape. This design, created during the glassblowing process, attests to the technical mastery of Murano glassmakers and lends the piece a particularly alluring sense of fluidity and lightness.At 44 cm tall, this vase makes a striking decorative statement. Its widely flared, corolla-like shape allows it to hold large bouquets as well as to be displayed on its own as a true glass sculpture. Depending on the lighting, the glass diffuses a soft, warm glow, highlighting the subtle reliefs of the swirling design.This creation is part of the great tradition of Murano's artistic glassworks, which, throughout the 20th century, successfully combined ancestral craftsmanship with resolutely modern lines. The purity of its forms, the balance of its proportions, and the refined simplicity of its white color make it a timeless piece that blends effortlessly into both contemporary and classic interiors.A high-quality decorative object, this vase captivates with its understated elegance and refinement. It is a fine example of Murano glass production from the second half of the 20th century, when the art of glassblowing reached a level of excellence recognized worldwide.A luminous and decorative piece, ideal for lovers of Italian art glass and 20th-century design.Murano, Italy.Opaline white blown glass with a spiral design.Height: 44 cm.Circa 1970-In perfect condition.
