Description

Hungarian painter (19th century) - Landscape with flock at sunset. 61 x 81 cm (without frame) - 78 x 97 cm (with frame). Oil on canvas, in a gilt wood and gesso frame. The work bears a signature lower right, difficult to read with certainty, attributable to a Hungarian painter active between the late 19th and early 20th century. A rural landscape at sunset in the tradition of Central European naturalism, with stylistic affinities to the Munich School of landscape painting. The composition is structured around a dirt path cutting diagonally across the picture plane, drawing the eye toward open plains in the background. A shepherd leads a large flock of sheep along the track, framed on the right by a group of slender birch trees with pale trunks. The sky dominates the upper portion of the canvas and glows with warm orange and golden tones, transitioning to cooler hues near the horizon where distant hills emerge through a softly veiled atmosphere. The treatment of the sheep's fleece, rendered with a brisk touch, and the chromatic quality of the sunset reveal confident technical handling and a sensitivity to plein air light.
