Description

Small Louis-Philippe period sideboard in mahogany, with a marble top
Elegant small Louis-Philippe period sideboard in mahogany and flamed mahogany veneer, featuring a belt drawer and two front doors that open to reveal storage space with an interior shelf. The interiors are finished in oak, meticulously crafted and varnished. The front is adorned with beautiful panels featuring flamed grain, framed by simple moldings characteristic of furniture from the first half of the 19th century. It rests on two ball-shaped legs at the front and is topped with an original gray marble tabletop. Its harmonious proportions allow it to fit easily into an entryway, living room, dining room, or bedroom.
Period: Louis-Philippe, circa 1840-1850
Wood: mahogany and mahogany veneer
Top: gray
