Description

Empire-style armchair in solid walnut, early 19th century
Elegant Empire-style armchair in solid walnut, resting on four saber-shaped legs at the back and slightly curved legs at the front. The backrest consists of three curved crossbars, creating the simple and harmonious line characteristic of the Empire style. The scroll-style armrests emphasize the elegance of the silhouette. The seat is upholstered with straw padding in perfect condition, crafted using traditional techniques. Beautiful warm walnut patina and exceptional craftsmanship. This armchair combines comfort, sturdiness, and decorative refinement. An ideal piece for an office, a library, or a classic interior. Period: Empire, early 19th century
Material: walnut and straw-tufted seat
