

Empire Console Table In Mahogany And White Marble - Restoration Period

780 EUR

Period : 19th century

Condition : Bon état

Material : Mahogany

Width : 102

Height : 87

Depth : 44

Description

Empire Console Table in Mahogany and White Marble - Restoration Period An elegant

Restoration-period console table in flamed mahogany, resting on two volute-shaped legs that end in powerful, sculpted lion's paw feet. The undulating lower crossbar harmoniously connects the supports and reinforces the piece's overall stability. The top is topped with a beautiful white veined marble with a softened groove, perfectly suited to the piece's sober and monumental lines. The mahogany veneers display remarkable flamed grain with rich highlights. This console perfectly illustrates the transition between the Empire and Restoration styles, combining the vigor of classical forms with a lighter elegance. It will be at home in an entryway, a living room, or a high-quality classical setting. Period:

Dealer

Tino antiquites

Mobilier

Mobile : 0763127955

11 rue de bel air à l'huis laurent

Dun les Places 58230

Restoration period, first half of the 19th century (circa 1820-1830)Materials: flamed mahogany and veined white marbleCondition: very good overall condition, with some signs of wear consistent with its age.Dimensions:Height: 87 cmWidth: 102 cmDepth: 44 cm