Description

three miniatures on vellum, painted in watercolor, depicting three members of the same family circa 1805-1820: a young man in a black coat and a high Empire-style collar, an elderly woman in a white bonnet and a red shawl, a young woman in a white Empire-style dress. The frames are Restoration / Charles X-era frames, made of blackened wood with gilded trim. The inscriptions on the back notably include: "Jeanne Cugnier" "Madame Clerget" "mother of Jacques Toussaint Clerget" "this portrait was painted in 1811" and on the others: "Jacques Toussaint Clerget" "A. Gay" These old annotations provide genuine family provenance, which is a significant advantage. The costumes, technique, frames, and backing papers are consistent with a work created around 1810-1815. The inscription "painted in
