Description

Large Art Nouveau floral chandelier in bronze and patinated metal Spectacular chandelier with naturalistic decoration featuring an abundance of intertwined stems, blooming flowers, buds, and leaves. The structure strongly evokes the Art Nouveau aesthetic of the late 19th century, inspired by the work of designers such as Louis Majorelle and Émile Gallé. The central shaft winds like a climbing plant around an openwork basin shaped like a basket. The light arms emerge from this tangle of foliage and support leaf-adorned lampshades. The flowers are accented with enamel or polychrome paint in pastel tones. The quality of the decoration is remarkable, and the visual effect is particularly spectacular when the chandelier is suspended. Style: Art Nouveau Period: late 19th to
