Description

Monolithic granite milestone dating from the 18th century. It rests on a square base for ground anchoring. Several milestones are available in addition to the one shown in the first image (see photos). Some feature a carved number (road number) with traces of red or yellow paint (National or Departmental roads) still partially visible on the top, depending on each one's age-related wear. These milestones are carved directly from a solid block of granite, a process of shaping natural stone that is entirely different from cast concrete manufacturing. Their rarity lies in their age and the quality of the material. They can be repurposed for a property entrance, to delineate a driveway, or as a decorative and historical feature in a garden or outdoor space, according to your inspiration and
