Description

Garrigues/Les Herberies Coffee Table by Roger Capron for Vallauris. A coffee table adorned with a leaf motif, where ceramic and wood blend subtly. This version features a cream-colored base that lightens the table's brutalist silhouette and highlights the natural-toned tiles. A rare model from Capron's early years, produced at the Atelier Capron in Vallauris, in the south of France. French studio ceramics with a painted wooden frame. This table is famous for its distinctive Garrigues tiles. These tiles are handcrafted by pressing real leaves and plants into wet clay before firing. During firing, the plants decompose, leaving a highly detailed, fossil-like imprint in the glaze. Tabletop diameter: 97 cm, 104 cm with the base. Height: 32 cm. An iconic design of mid-20th-century French
