Description

An exceptional, monumental 19th-century gilded bronze mantel clock, signed on the dial by the famous Parisian clockmaker Henry Marc, one of the most respected names in French clockmaking of the time. Richly decorated and crafted with remarkable skill, this impressive clock is a superb example of the luxurious decorative arts produced in France during the Second Empire and at the end of the 19th century. The architectural composition is adorned with two crowned cherubs, elegantly placed at the center of an elaborate arrangement of classical architectural elements and ornamental motifs. The sculptural quality of the figures, combined with the richness of the gilded bronze decoration, creates a magnificent visual presence, worthy of a grand salon or reception hall. The finely detailed dial
