Description

This pair of marble foot sculptures, highly original and richly decorated, dates from the early 20th century. Inspired by fragments of ancient Greek and Roman statues, these finely carved works evoke the atmosphere of archaeological discoveries and the timeless fascination with classical antiquity.Crafted from marble, these sculptures faithfully reproduce the anatomical form of human feet, with remarkable attention to detail and proportion. Their fragmentary nature recalls the famous remains of ancient sculptures preserved in museums and private collections, where each isolated element is appreciated as a work of art in its own right.The natural beauty of the marble, combined with the elegant simplicity of the subject, gives this pair a timeless sculptural quality. They can be displayed as decorative
