Description

Pair of Delft vases. In exceptional condition. No restorations, very minor glaze-chips, that's to it's 200 plus- years of age, visible in the photo.

Beautiful pastoral scenes in cobalt bleu under glossy tin-glaze. The handles are each side shaped as two entwined snakes, finished with dotted 'lace', typical of Delftware motifs. This is a substantial, decorative piece from the best period of Dutch ceramic art. The underside bears the freehand signature of PVDB, Paulus Van De Burgh, master potter active in Delft, 1759-1773. The signature is usual the name of the potterie, not always the painter. Worldwide protected shipping. Delivery within Europe can be done by Antique Fireplaces First: "In-House Delivery."
