

Large French Copper Stock Pot With Lid, Late 19th Century

790 EUR

Period : 19th century

Condition : Bon état

Material : Copper

Description

This impressive French copper stock pot dates from the late 19th century and reflects the exceptional craftsmanship associated with traditional French culinary copperware. Constructed from heavy-gauge copper and fitted with solid brass handles and a matching lid, it was originally intended for preparing large quantities of stock, soup, preserves, or other dishes in professional kitchens, country estates, or grand households. The pot features a classic cylindrical form with elegantly curved brass side handles securely riveted to the body. The matching copper lid is fitted with a sturdy brass handle and sits neatly within the rim. Over more than a century, the copper has developed a rich and warm patina that highlights its authenticity and long history of use. The surface displays

Dealer

Chic French Antiques

Purveyor of fine French antiques dating from the 18th to the 20th century

Mobile : 0612049287

Showroom

La Ciotat 13600

expected wear, marks, scratches, and areas of oxidation consistent with age, all contributing to its character and decorative appeal. Today, antique French copper cookware of this quality is highly prized by collectors, interior designers, and enthusiasts of French culinary history. Whether displayed in a farmhouse kitchen, a château-inspired interior, a restaurant, or as part of a collection of antique kitchenware, this substantial stock pot makes a striking statement. Its generous scale, beautiful proportions, and honest age-related wear embody the timeless elegance and practicality for which French copper cookware is renowned. Dimensions: H 30 cm × Ø 37 cm (Ø 38 cm including handles)