Description

An elegant late 19th-century seascape depicting a bustling harbor with sailboats at anchor. In the foreground, a fisherman on the shore adds a lively and poetic touch to this composition, bathed in an atmosphere of mist and maritime calm. The artist, whose monogram "A.F.X." and the date "91" appear in the lower left corner, demonstrates a fine mastery of charcoal, subtly playing with contrasts and lighting effects to convey the full depth of the scene. The work is presented in its original gilded wooden frame, preserved with its beautiful original patina, as well as behind its slightly bubbled antique glass--elements that enhance its charm and authenticity. Dimensions of the artwork: 49 x 34 cm. Dimensions with frame: 63 x 59 cm. A seascape of great decorative quality, evocative of late 19th-century fishing
