Description

A popular domestic shrine made of carved and polychrome wood, cylindrical in shape, opening with two hinged doors. It features, under glass, a figure of Saint Joseph and Child, flanked by two saintly figures in relief. Naive craftsmanship, likely carved with a knife, with fairly vivid original polychromy. Exterior painted reddish-brown, parchment hinges, and a small brass hook. Probably Brazil, 19th century or early 20th century. A beautiful example is on display at the Museu do Oratorio in Bahia; (last photo). In good condition upon discovery: (small traces of glue), some cleaningwork needed. H: 15.5 cm, diam: 4.5 cm.
