Description

A magnificent Dutch mechanical sideboard from the early 19th century circa 1830, crafted from inlaid mahogany. This unique piece is distinguished by its ingenious triple-folding top; when opened, it reveals a vertical structure with serving shelves, ideal for displaying decorative objects. It is richly inlaid on all sides with finely executed foliate and floral motifs in lemonwood and boxwood. This refined ornamentation features symmetrical plant and floral designs, complemented by inlaid depictions of serving utensils and musical instruments on the shelves. The piece offers excellent storage capacity, comprising two upper frieze drawers and two lower doors concealing a spacious interior with a central shelf. Condition: Good overall condition, with some minor splits. Dimensions: Closed:
