Description

SAINT-HUBERT SIDEBOARD IN FLAMED MAHOGANY
NAPOLEON III PERIOD - 19TH CENTURY
A superb Saint-Hubert sideboard made of solid mahogany and flamed mahogany veneer, from the Napoleon III period. This remarkable piece stands out for its elegant carved crown featuring volutes and finely crafted floral motifs. The upper section is adorned with an open gallery supported by beautiful openwork consoles with scrollwork, characteristic of high-quality 19th-century craftsmanship. The front features three drawers in a horizontal band surmounting a large two-door section that reveals ample storage space. The panels are clad in a magnificent flamed mahogany veneer with spectacular grain patterns, creating a particularly refined decorative effect. The piece rests on a simple, balanced base,
