Description

Elegant Louis XVI-style dresser, rectangular in shape, crafted from veneered and inlaid wood with light and stained wood fillets. The piece features a simple and refined front, marked by three drawers decorated with geometric fillets and neoclassical motifs. The front side panels are rounded and decorated with simulated fluting, embellished with chiseled and gilded bronze ornaments. The dresser rests on tapered legs, which are also in keeping with the Louis XVI style. The top is made of veined marble, with a contoured edge, which elegantly complements the wooden structure and highlights the contrast between the warmth of the wood veneer and the luminosity of the stone. A piece of furniture with a pleasing decorative balance, suitable for a classic setting or an elegant French-style interior. Style:
