Vintage Crocodile Skin Taxidermy, 1960s

900 EUR

Period : 20th century

Condition : Très bon état

Material : Paper

Description

A crocodile skin taxidermy specimen dating from the 1960s, preserved in excellent condition. It features the distinctive texture, scale pattern, and natural character that make crocodile specimens highly sought-after decorative and collectible items.Carefully prepared and preserved, the skin reveals the remarkable, armor-like scales and complex natural patterns that characterize one of the world's oldest reptile species. This piece reflects the fascination with exotic wildlife and natural history specimens that emerged in European interiors in the mid-20th century.Its elongated shape and meticulous presentation make it ideal for a library, a hunting lodge, a country house, a cabinet of curiosities, a safari-themed interior, or a natural history collection. This specimen can also be

Dealer

Florin Antiques
Meubles et Objets d'art du XVIIIe et XIXeme
Tel : 0034 671 362 406
Mobile : 0034 671 362 406

PASEO RECOLETOS 31
Madrid 28004

incorporated into decorative projects or displayed on its own as a striking centerpiece.The hide has been exceptionally well-preserved, maintaining its attractive appearance and decorative appeal.A fine example of exotic taxidermy from the mid-20th century, a unique decorative piece with strong visual impact.Period:1960sMaterial:Preserved crocodile skinDimensions:Length: 125 cmWidth: 27 cmCondition:Excellent vintage condition. Very well preserved, with slight signs of age. Beautiful natural texture and coloration.Keywords:Florin Antiques