Description

A terracotta sculpture depicting a reclining female figure in a modern and expressive composition, in which the body is rendered in a spirit of formal simplification, leaving ample room for the interplay between solid and void. The work rests on a rectangular base and is distinguished by its deliberately minimalist modeling: the volumes of the torso, the elongated lines of the limbs, and the recesses carved into the bust and head create a particularly intriguing sculptural tension, evoking certain modernist sculptural experiments from the second half of the 20th century. The matte surface retains a beautiful sense of materiality, with visible traces of handwork that reinforce its authentic character and direct connection to the studio. The piece as a whole has a substantial density, weighing 3.5 kg.

reflecting a serious and stable craftsmanship. The sculpture is monogrammed "JW" and dated 1986 on the base, and likely comes from a studio collection, a detail that enhances its appeal to collectors of artist-made works or unique pieces from the late 20th century. A unique, decorative, and expressive piece, ideal for a contemporary interior, a library, or a collection dedicated to modern sculpture. Condition: Very good overall condition, with a slight crack on the thigh
