Description

Antique studded collar for large dogs dating from the late 1800s. A hand-engraved tag bears the owner's name and location: "Francesco Wegmann--Medolla." We can trace this historic property to Medolla, a town located near Modena in Emilia-Romagna. The Wegmann family owned the villa of the same name, which still stands today and dates back to the late 1500s. The collar is in good condition and consists of a leather ring surrounded by another engraved and silver-plated brass ring. It shows signs of oxidation and wear but is still in excellent condition. Adjustable, measuring 16-18 centimeters in diameter.
