Description

Jean Lurcat (1892-1966) was a major 20th-century artist who revitalized the decorative arts. A painter, ceramicist, and tapestry designer, he masterfully explored traditional forms, which he elevated through an artistic language of his time. We are offering here a catalog--likely from a tapestry exhibition--published in Nice in 1968, accompanied by an interesting letter from his widow, as well as another from the gallery owner in Saint-Céré, where he had his château. Period photographs round out the collection. In very good condition, this is an informative collection dedicated to this immense artist.
