Description

The central decoration features war-related motifs. There are flags, a torch, an arrow (above which are two birds facing each other), a helmet, a shield, axes, rifles, banners, and a book with the inscription "To Knight Bayard." The drapery frames this design in the style of a canopy bed set against a fleur-de-lis background. The frame is surrounded by stylized S-shaped scrolls. The floral decoration on each side includes a Louis XVI. This rosewood background is enhanced by a rosewood frieze, the whole set off by a scalloped boxwood border. This same decorative motif is found on the wooden gallery. The marquetry band harmoniously combines curves and counter-curves. It complements perfectly the delicacy of the openwork legs and the delicacy of the marquetry-covered top. The interplay of solid
