Description

This richly decorated German ceremonial dish features several concentric decorative bands in high relief depicting six emperors of the Holy Roman Empire and their coats of arms: Charles V (1519-1556), Ferdinand I (1556-1564), Maximilian II (1564-1576), Rudolf II (1576-1612), Matthias I (1612-1619), and Ferdinand II (1619-1637). The recessed medallion in the center of the plate depicts a dynamic equestrian effigy of Ferdinand III (1637-1657) with his royal regalia. The central section is framed by a double ring of inlaid stones, consisting of a circle of dark red cabochons and a contrasting ring of square-cut turquoises. The spaces in between are filled with finely chiseled volutes and acanthus leaves, characteristic of princely Renaissance
