Description

A terracotta sculpture depicting a classical Greek head, created by the Italian sculptor Alfredo Lanz in the 1970s and signed "A. Lanz." Mounted on an imposing marble pedestal, this striking work reflects the artist's admiration for the sculptural traditions of ancient Greece, while offering a modern and original interpretation. The sculpture depicts an idealized Greek head, with noble features, carefully modeled hair, and a serene expression, inspired by the masterpieces of Classical antiquity. Alfredo Lanz succeeds in capturing the harmony, balance, and timeless beauty that characterize ancient Greek sculpture, while infusing it with his own artistic sensibility and an expressive treatment of form. Crafted in terracotta, the work features a rich texture and warm coloring that highlight the modeling and craftsmanship. The contrast between the terracotta bust and the elegant marble base enhances its architectural presence and visual impact. Signed by the artist, this sculpture perfectly illustrates Alfredo Lanz's talent for reinterpreting classical themes through the lens of 20th-century Italian art. Its imposing dimensions make it a majestic decorative piece, ideal for both classical and contemporary interiors. A remarkable piece for a library, gallery, entryway, office, study, or a collection of classically inspired sculptures, it combines artistic refinement with timeless charm.
