Description

Art Nouveau Virgin and Child with a Flower Crown, made of bisque porcelain, late 19th century A true work of art from the French religious art tradition of the late 19th century, this Virgin and Child is spectacular. Originating from a porcelain manufactory (Limoges?), this Virgin and Child is rare due to its style, which blends the realism of 19th-century Neoclassicism with the organic and floral beauty of Art Nouveau from 1890. Once sold within religious congregations to support the Church of that era, this marvel is now a collector's item in the realm of religious art and exceptional porcelain. Its great delicacy and fine craftsmanship, combined with its excellent overall condition, make this figurine a beautiful gift--whether for yourself or for a person of faith. Fast and careful shipping to France, Europe,
