Description

A masterpiece of Lombard cabinetmakingThe timeless charm of the 17th century comes alive in this extraordinary Lombard chest of drawers, a piece that embodies the elegance and sturdiness of antique Italian furniture. Crafted with a level of artisanal skill that is virtually impossible to find today, this piece represents a sound investment for those who wish to enhance their home with an object of great historical value. First and foremost, the solid walnut frame ensures a sturdiness that has withstood the test of time, while retaining a truly deep natural luster. Technical Details and Fine MaterialsThe surface is embellished with refined decorations; the inlays are made of maple, olive burl, and walnut, materials that create color contrasts of rare beauty. Furthermore, the chest of drawers is in excellent overall condition, with minimal signs of wear over time that attest to its authenticity without compromising its aesthetic appeal. As for its dimensions, the piece measures 60 x 140 x 98 cm (H), a substantial size that allows it to make a commanding statement in any room, from a formal living room to a bedroom.

Quality and Impeccable ConditionIn addition to its visual beauty, the internal craftsmanship--typical of late 17th-century Lombard workshops--must be highlighted. Consequently, each drawer slides smoothly, preserving its original functionality. For this reason, collectors and interior designers seek out similar pieces, as they complement both classic and modern furnishings. Similarly, the original patina has been carefully preserved, so the wood still exudes all its original warmth.
