Description

The oval painting in the highlighted box shows a half-length portrait of a 17th-century man, traditionally identified as Jean-Baptiste Colbert. The subject is depicted in a three-quarter view with long, dark hair, black academic or magistrate's robes, and a wide, rectangular white collar. The composition stands out against a dark architectural background with a view of the twilight sky. The work is set in an oval lacquered wooden frame. The painting is in excellent condition, with a few minor signs of age. A painting of excellent craftsmanship and high-quality execution.
