Description

An exceptional engraved chandelier with a prunelle motif by Gallé. Well known among collectors, this lovely chandelier is entirely acid-etched with a rich design of green and blue prunelles on a honey-colored background. This model remains highly sought after by collectors for its cheerful colors. The way the light passes through it is truly magnificent--I'll let you be the judge...The glasswork is mounted on a lovely pinched bronze frame, with sockets decorated with acanthus leaves. 40 cm in diameter, in very good condition (a small chip on the inner rim, insignificant and completely invisible once the frame is installed), signed, electrified, ready for use, circa 1910. A very lovely piece of Art Nouveau glassware, now quite rare.
