Description

This piece captivates with the contrast between the rustic quality of the raw clay and the beautiful mastery of the warm-toned glaze. An authentic, textured piece, ideal for adding warmth to a contemporary or vintage interior. This stoneware piece is signed by the French ceramicist François Baudet. His work fits perfectly into the great tradition of French stoneware potters (whose style often echoes the works of La Borne or La Puisaye). He works with stoneware using chamotte clay (with visible grain), which gives the piece a very raw and natural appearance. While he has produced classic rustic pieces, he is especially appreciated today for his mastery of glazes. His decorative pieces often feature superb color nuances, sometimes with a play of textures (raw clay
