Description

Small inlaid mahogany tea table or coffee table - Early 20th century
Charming small mahogany tea table or coffee table, resting on four tapered legs joined by an elegant X-shaped crossbar. It features a removable oval tabletop, fitted with two patinated metal handles for easy transport. The top is richly decorated with delicate marquetry of flowers and foliage in light wood, creating a refined Louis XV-inspired design. Once the top is removed, the table reveals a second open-shelf top, allowing it to be used as a serving table or side table. This piece combines elegance and functionality and will easily find its place in a living room, boudoir, or library. Please note some signs of wear and previous restorations on the edge of the tabletop, visible in the photographs, which do not affect its sturdiness or
