Description

An elegant pair of Maison Jansen-style wall sconces from the 1970s, crafted from gilded brass and adorned with carved lotus leaves. Their refined botanical design reflects the luxurious and exotic decorative style associated with Maison Jansen and the high-end French interiors of that era. The overlapping lotus leaves create a beautiful sense of movement and depth, while the warm gilded brass finish gives the sconces a sophisticated and glamorous presence. Their generous dimensions make them ideal lighting fixtures for a hallway, living room, bedroom, entryway, or any other refined interior design project. A highly decorative pair combining the elegance of the Hollywood Regency style, French decorative taste, and the organic forms typical of 1970s luxury design. Period: 1970s Style: Maison
