Description

A charming set of four framed botanical engravings, depicting medicinal plants with great finesse, each accompanied by its Latin and Italian names. These engravings are believed to be derived from, or inspired by, Gaetano Savi's work Materia Medica Vegetabile Toscana, published in Florence around 1805. The lower margins bear the inscriptions Bald. Benvenuti del. and Gius. Canacci inc., indicating that the original drawings are by Baldassarre Benvenuti and the engravings by Giuseppe Canacci. They feature a magnificent patina of age, with delicate botanical coloring, highly refined engraving, and slight natural foxing on the paper. The wooden frames, with their warm honey tones and darker moldings, exude genuine country-house charm and show age-appropriate wear. These engravings
