

Garden Statue Made Of Reconstituted Stone Depicting A Young Faun - 20th Century

1 000 EUR

Period : 20th century

Condition : Bon état

Material : Stone

Height : 110

Description

Reconstructed stone garden statue depicting a young faun - 20th century Elegant reconstructed stone garden statue depicting a young faun or satyr, inspired by classical statuary. The figure, with a nonchalant demeanor, is depicted standing with his legs crossed, leaning against a draped tree trunk around which a chain is wrapped. His head is adorned with small horns characteristic of the mythological figure of the faun. The modeling of the face, the softness of the forms, and the graceful pose evoke the decorative sculptures of French gardens. Crafted from high-quality reconstituted stone, this sculpture is designed for outdoor use but will also find its place in an orangery, a patio, or a spacious interior. Its white patina, developed over time, gives it all the charm of antique garden ornaments. Period: 20th

Dealer

Tino antiquites

Mobilier

Mobile : 0763127955

11 rue de bel air à l'huis laurent

Dun les Places 58230

century. Material: reconstituted stone. Condition: generally good condition, with an outdoor patina and some slight wear consistent with use. No visible restoration. Dimensions: 110 cm (visible height) A beautiful decorative sculpture, ideal for enhancing a garden, a terrace, or a historic home in a classical style inspired by antiquity.