Description

This is a Hermès Kelly ring in 18-karat gold and 925 sterling silver, featuring the famous padlock that is the hallmark of the Kelly bag. The ring, designed to resemble a riveted strap, is adorned with a yellow gold clasp from which hangs a movable miniature padlock, faithful to the Hermès aesthetic. Designed in the early 2000s, this model elegantly reinterprets the codes of Hermès leather goods in a piece of jewelry that has become iconic for the house. Signed model, with mixed gold and silver hallmarks. Partially legible master's hallmark, likely that of the Parisian Bermudes workshop. Sold with its original Hermès outer box, without its original presentation case. Made in France around 2000. Very good overall condition, with light surface wear consistent with age and use. Gross
