Description

Oil on canvas depicting a nude young woman; the painting is signed by the French artist Louise-Élisabeth Anselme-Charmasson. A regular at the major Parisian art salons since the late 1960s, the artist reveals here her full talent for rendering skin tones and light. With a airy, slightly "blurred" touch, full of softness--reminiscent of the Impressionist tradition--she captures the poetry and grace of her model. An intimate, luminous, and exquisitely delicate work. Louise-Élisabeth ANSELME-CHARMASSON (1923-2010) Born in Bourges in 1923, she passed away in 2010. She took art classes through the City of Paris and began exhibiting in major Parisian salons, including the famous Salon des Artistes, as early as the late 1960s. She is renowned for her Parisian landscapes, her flower arrangements, and her female nudes. Her brushwork is ethereal and gentle, with a perfect mastery of light on the skin that often brings to mind gallery owners, the delicate legacy of Auguste Renoir's nudes. Her female nudes viewed from behind are her most intimate works and are sought after by interior designers to create boudoir-style atmospheres.
