Claudio La Viola was born in Milan, where he lives and works. Self-taught from a very young age, he expressed his creativity in the world of fashion, where he established himself as a designer in the 1970s. These same qualities accompanied his entry into the world of design and architecture in 1990. His approach is purist, passionate, and enthusiastic, always seeking to convey emotion through his work, as he asserts that "a design without a soul is a design without distinction"
