Description

18th-century Louis XVI-style walnut drop-front secretary desk. An elegant drop-front secretary desk made of solid walnut in the Louis XVI style, dating from the late 18th century. It opens with a belt drawer, revealing a large drop-leaf top that exposes a fully organized interior consisting of six small drawers, storage compartments, and a central compartment. The drop-leaf top is upholstered in its original green leather, forming a comfortable writing surface. The lower section opens with two doors concealing a shelf and a storage drawer. The fluted sides, tapered legs, and balanced proportions are characteristic of the Louis XVI style. This writing desk features a beautiful original patina and high-quality walnut. A simple, elegant, and functional piece, it will fit just as well in an office as in a library or a
