Description

This Italian-made octagonal dining table dates back to the 1960s, featuring a distinctive design that blends classic and modern elements. The legs are made of ebony-stained wood, giving the table a solid structure and an elegant look. The top, embellished with a segmented exotic wood veneer, offers a visual interplay of grain and hues that emphasizes the piece's artisanal quality. Recently restored in our workshop, the table is in excellent condition, ready to be placed in living spaces that emphasize vintage furnishings. The restoration preserved the integrity of the original materials while ensuring contemporary functionality.
