Description

A Baroque walnut chest of drawers from France dating to the early 18th century, featuring a curved front with three drawers. Each drawer is adorned with bas-relief carvings that include a central rosette and irregular panels on the sides, a motif that extends to the sides of the chest as well. The rounded legs provide a harmonious transition to the ornate feet, which end in elegant curls, contributing to the overall Baroque aesthetic. This piece of furniture, in addition to being an example of refined woodworking, offers an opportunity to appreciate French craftsmanship of the period.
