Description

Refined fir bookcase is intricately carved and painted in tempera in shades of gray, white, and pink. The upper structure of the bookcase comprises three rows of round arches, adorned with decorative lateral pilasters, and bracketed feet. Below the upper section are three protruding shelves, closed by hinged doors, ideal for storing items that are not on display, ensuring practicality and ergonomics. The bookcase is extremely spacious, with fabric-covered shelves and the option of adding up to nine in total, distributed both on the front and inside the doors. The refined elegance of this piece is accentuated by the tempera painting,
