Description

A beautiful bookcase made of solid mahogany, molded and carved. It opens with two large glass-paned doors in the central section; the sides feature two glass-paned cabinets that open toward the front, supported by carved arched mullions that frame two open niches and two solid doors in the lower section. The piece stands out for the elegance and fluidity of its design, the harmony of its proportions, and the finesse of its carving--all hallmarks of Tony Selmersheim's furniture. Superb quality of cabinetmaking and a beautiful patina. Circa 1900 We invite you to visit our website: antiquites-art-nouveau.fr
