Description

Watercolor on paper, signed "Frank Will" in the lower left corner, depicting the port of Fécamp bustling with large sailing ships at dock and people. In the background, the Church of Saint Etienne in Fécamp stands out, recognizable by its silhouette towering over the harbor. The work is rendered in a soft palette of browns, ochres, grays, and blacks, with the artist's characteristic dynamic brushwork. Dimensions: 87 x 66 cm with frame 53 x 41 cm (viewable area). Presented under glass in a gilded frame. Please note: The paper has slight creases, which I took care to photograph to provide the most accurate description. Frank Will (1900-1950), whose real name was Frank William Boggs, was a French painter and watercolorist born in Nanterre and who died in Clichy. The son of painter Frank Boggs, he adopted his artist name in 1919 and devoted himself primarily to watercolor. There are, of course, a few works he created in oil on canvas. His body of work includes numerous views of Paris (Montmartre, the banks of the Seine, Notre Dame) as well as landscapes and ports in Normandy, including Rouen, Honfleur, Fécamp, and Le Tréport...
