Description

A finely decorated 17th-century lacquer and gold frame. Frames of this type were produced in central Italy during the 17th century; in fact, the "pagnottella" design evokes the charm of 16th-century prototypes. The frame features an interlaced decoration, ending with plant motifs at the corners, finely engraved across the entire gilded surface. The piece has not undergone any restoration and retains its original lacquer and pure gold finish. Its external dimensions are 60 x 70. Internal clear opening: 41 x 52Insured shipping at the customer's expense; we will personally arrange professional packaging at our own expenseA certificate of authenticity is included with the sale.
