

Ngon Bamana Mask From Côte D'Ivoire And Mali

1 600 EUR

Period : 20th century

Condition : Bon état

Material : Solid wood

Description

Stunning Ngon mask from the Bamana people of Ivory Coast, featuring a thick, crusty sacrificial patina that is partially flaked with its collar. Medium-hard wood-hard wood Koulikoro region. Guaranteed to be a beautiful collector's item and decorative piece. A powerfully expressive mask with its four eyes and its slender, slightly parted beak-like mouth bordering an abstraction. This ethnic group, straddling the border between Mali and Côte d'Ivoire, consists mainly of herders and farmers. As animists, they believe in a creator god who maintains order in the universe. It is known that the primary function of this mask is social and aims to promote fertility, the fertility of the land, and the resolution of conflicts of interest. Good condition.
