Description

Elegant and unique large polychrome majolica display plate. This sizable plate features refined interior decorations, featuring the classic depiction of the so-called "Triumph of Galatea" in the center. The nymph Galatea is depicted in apotheosis, riding a shell chariot at sea, half-naked, surrounded by nereids, tritons, and cupids, including a flying cupid about to shoot an arrow. Around the rim of the plate are motifs of intertwined plants and fantastical faces, also reminiscent of classical art. This is a tasteful and refined plate, appreciated for its chromatic rendering and realistic detail, capable of lending a touch of class and antiquity to any setting. Neapolitan manufacture, likely from the workshop of Gaetano Battaglia (1850-1880), from the second half of the 19th
