Description

A rare set of six 19th-century fencing swords, crafted in Toledo, Spain--a city that has been recognized worldwide for centuries as one of Europe's leading centers for swordmaking. This authentic collection bears witness to the exceptional metallurgical tradition and artisanal craftsmanship that have made Toledo blades renowned among officers, athletes, and collectors. Each sword features the slender blade characteristic of 19th-century fencing weapons, designed for the practice of fencing and the noble art of saber handling. The master blacksmiths of Toledo were renowned for crafting flexible, durable blades of exceptional quality, and examples bearing this origin remain highly sought after today. The set consists of six original swords, retaining a remarkable degree of
