Giuseppe Manfredi (seravezza, 1934 - Montecatini Terme, 1987) *boat On The Beach*, 1971

Description

Oil on cardboard depicting a picturesque fishing boat pulled ashore on the beach, next to a simple shack on the Versilia coast. Signed and dated in the lower right corner "G. Manfredi '71," the painting belongs to one of the artist's most mature periods. The composition is minimalist yet imbued with great poetic intensity: the boat, the undisputed focal point of the scene, emerges from a color palette dominated by warm grays, earth tones, and delicate blue reflections, while the sea and sky merge into a suspended, silent atmosphere. The textured and vibrant brushwork effectively captures the soft light of the Tuscan coast, evoking the understated charm of Versilia in the off-season. Giuseppe Manfredi was one of the most sensitive interpreters of the Versilian and seascape landscapes of the second half of the
